

Service & Support

Within the group we work continually with our technicians of the research and development departments to turn visions into reality.

In this way, we have produced a number of product innovations in the past. Cooperation with universities and development partners, as well as the knowledge where to focus on, is necessary to form our company's success.

The requirements of today's completion of relevant projects provides not only high technical requirements, but also requires a professional project management.

The continuous training of employees and the introduction of IT tools in project management and execution support compliance with the contractual obligations under schedule and cost requirements and thus act sustainable to ensure customer satisfaction.

Copyright © 2013 HEAT Group